ONLINE CHANNEL EXPANDS NEWS COVERAGE WITH TVLINK

The company Canal Villavicencio, located in the city of Villavicencio, Meta (Colombia), increased the news coverage of its “online” channel by putting into service a point-to-point low-cost TV Link, model TVLINK5.8-121.

The microwave link connects a mobile camera unit to the TV studio, allowing live broadcast of current events in real time. The link covers a transmission distance up to 30 kilometers.

The system operates in the “license-free” 5.8 GHz band and allows mobile coverage at low cost using portable equipment. This approach provides live connectivity from almost anywhere in the city and surrounding area to TV studio at the center of the city.

Mr. Carlos Chamorro, owner of the channel said, “I’m very satisfied with the system and the service provided by Cable AML.”
